

University of Birmingham - Appointment Opportunities in Stem Cell and Ageing Research

The University of Birmingham currently has several recruitment opportunities associated with stem cell and ageing research. A number of senior positions up to Chair level are available in the broad area of stem cells and ageing, incorporating studies on the niche environment and cancer stem cells.

If you are interested in these positions, and require further information, please send e-mail correspondence to Professor Jon Frampton at the University of Birmingham: j.frampton@bham.ac.uk.