With 8 weeks to go to the third UKNSCN Annual Stem Cell Science Conference in Nottingham in July, places are now filling fast and you are therefore encouraged to register on-line as soon as possible to avoid missing out. Don't forget that your registration fee includes two nights' accommodation (should you require it) for 12th and 13th July on the Nottingham campus, and that there are significantly reduced fees for UK-based PhD students who present a poster at the conference with the endorsement of their supervisor. All poster presenters also have the opportunity to be selected by experts on the conference steering group to take up one of the plenary speaker slots which are reserved for those presenting the best poster abstracts. Please view the up-to-date programme in the attached file. The formal conference dinner takes place on the second evening as usual (Tuesday 13 July) and will be held at the magnificent Kelham Hall. Places cost £45 and can be booked during the registration process. Professor Sir John Gurdon FRS (Cambridge) will deliver the after-dinner speech.
